ACHA Best Practices in College Health Award
Adapted from the Pacific Coast College Health Association’s Golden Gull Awards for Best Practices in College Health.

Award Overview:
This award recognizes exemplary, innovative, and inspirational practices in one of four major areas of college health: (1) clinical services, (2) counseling services, (3) administrative and consumer services, and (4) health education and promotion services. Up to four awards, one in each area, will be presented each year to a student health center(s) that demonstrates program and/or services excellence. This award encourages the creation of programs and student patient services that are designed to advance the health of college students.

All nominations must be received by the ACHA National Office by the date listed here: https://www.acha.org/ACHA/About/ACHA/About/Best_Practices_Noms.aspx

Program Eligibility for Nomination:

- Programs and services may be self-nominated or peer-nominated.
- All nominated programs must be consistent with the mission and vision of ACHA.
- Programs should emphasize diversity and cultural competency whenever practical.
- Nominated programs must be implemented at an institution that is a member of ACHA or have an individual member of ACHA directly involved with the creation and/or implementation of the program by the time of selection by the Awards Committee.

Program Evaluation Criteria:

- The program will be evaluated on how innovative it is and on its uniqueness.
- The description of the program should include the number of students the program has impacted and what percent of the targeted population this is.
- Data is to be presented on the outcome and effectiveness of the program.

The awards will be given each year in one or more of the following categories:

- Clinical Services may include: medical care, nursing, pharmacy, laboratory, immunization, travel clinic, dietetics, radiology, specialty care, physical therapy, emergency care, alternative therapy, etc.
- Administrative and Consumer Services may include: patient satisfaction, insurance, quality management, appointments, medical records, information technology, human resources, professional development and training services, etc.
- Counseling Services may include: psychiatry, psychology, social work, and other mental health services that are provided at the student health center or the counseling center of an ACHA member institution.
- Health Education and Promotion Services may include: peer education, university and community outreach, workshops and presentations, survey and data collection, etc.

Some Ideas to Consider (all areas do not need to be addressed):

- Does the program promote healthy lifestyles that will have a positive impact on the decision-making development of students?
- Does the program involve collaborative efforts within the university, student affairs, and academic affairs to help promote retention and improve student’s performance?
- Does the program involve diverse populations within the college or university?
- Does the program encourage or facilitate the improvement of college health practices?

Expectations for Award Recipients:
Recipients are expected to provide at least one of the following the year after receiving the Best Practice Award:

- Submit a poster proposal for the next ACHA Annual Meeting that describes the innovative program or service. Attendance at the meeting is not required for this option; notify ACHA if recipients are unable to attend.
- Submit a program proposal about the program/service for a session at the next ACHA Annual Meeting (Subject to ACHA Program Planning Committee selection process; not guaranteed to be selected).
- Write a synopsis of the program/service for publication in the ACHA newsletter, College Health in Action.
