It's Thanks Birth Control Day!

In attendance: Blake Flaugher (he/him), Christine Kukich (she/her), Jordan McCann (she/her), Brandy Reeves (she/her), Cheryl Owens (she/her), Danielle Devers (she/her), Lizzie Finley

- Review of the Coalition purpose
 - Meet third Wednesday of the month at 11am EST/8am PST
- Updates
 - Best Practices Implementation Guide: coming soon
 - Did webinar in September to review guide and best practices
 - Webinar in November about case studies using best practices for sexual health promotion and clinical care during COVID; recording coming soon
 - Sexual Health Services Survey Report 2018-2019 available
 - Rate of positive pregnancy test has declined over time
 - ACHA Annual Meeting
 - Coalition submitted proposal for Expedited partner Therapy (EPT)
- Open discussion
 - How are you preparing students for a longer break?
 - Push in weekly student newsletter to promote safer sex supplies--pick them up before heading home for break
 - Promotion to students to pick up safer sex products in the wellness center
 - Partnering with health department to mail safer sex products to students over break--willing to mail most places (locally and in other states, as long as there are no restrictions on mailing to that location)
 - What did you learn in Fall to prepare for Spring?
 - Doing sexual health programming in a virtual space may allow for more anonymity--may be better than in person in that regard.
 - Recent event on one campus allowed for students to ask questions in a way where no one could see them or hear them--may not know who is asking the question
 - Asynchronous programming--Canvas modules. Birth control options, STI/HIV prevention. Directing people to the course when they pick up safer sex supplies to help them learn how to use them
 - One school did an Instagram survey and over 100 students replied saying they like asynchronous programming
 - Recording videos with different faculty and staff on campus. One person did a video on "sex in the time of COVID"
 - Sex hasn't stopped!
 - COVID has helped people/schools talk about masturbation and sex toys and pleasure in an easier way
